THE RAILROAD CONVENTION AT MOUNT VERNON SPRINGS.—We had the pleasure of attending the Railroad Convention at Mount Vernon Springs on Thursday last. Rowan, Caldwell, and others were present. D. P. Caldwell, Esq., was the presiding officer. The meeting passed off very harmoniously, and full confidence was expressed in the success of the enterprise. The road can be constructed, if only interested in the work will put their shoulders to the wheel.

Greensboro Patriot.

ANOTHER YOUNG HERO BROUGHT BACK.—The remains of Lieutenant Edward S. Smodes, Adjutant of the 5th N. C. T., who fell at the battle of Spotsylvania, will be buried to-morrow (Sunday) afternoon, at 4 o'clock, P. M.

His friends are respectfully invited to attend the funeral service, which will be held in the Episcopal Church.

Rail Sentinel, Nov. 3.

THE CAPITOL.—A tour about the halls of the Capitol this morning disclosed the fact that the keeper of that institution, Mr. R. H. Bradley, had been ordered to change the carpeting, desks and chairs repaired, brightened and put in position, the floors newly carpeted, and the gas arrangements finished, so that the members of the senate and commons have nothing to do but come forward at the appointed time and take their seats in the midst of elegant surroundings. The manner in which the trust has been executed is very creditable to Mr. B.

CHANGED HANDS.—The large brick building on the southwest corner of Fayetteville and Hargett streets, which was formerly owned by J. G. Williams, Esq., and used for the storage of his large stock of goods, has been sold to the Raleigh National Bank. The building was used for mercantile purposes and the work of putting it up will be commenced as soon as material can be accumulated. Those who have the matter under control know how to do such things right.—Rail Progress.

A GOOD MOVE.—A movement is to be made at last, we are assured, against the gas monopoly, or, in other words, to compel the reduction of price or abandon the use of such light. For this object, a meeting of consumers will soon be called in order to secure harmony and unless the company lowers its tariff, we shall not long hence witness an extraordinary demand for lamps and kerosene.—Rail Progress.

IS JAIL.—We learn, officially, that there are now twenty-nine persons confined in the city jail, for the following offences:

Theft.	24
Manslaughter.	1
Adultery.	3
and one other on a charge unknown to us, which makes a total of 29.

ANOTHER SPECIAL TERM.—A commission to hold a special term of superior court for the purpose of settling the claims of the late John W. Barnes, has been issued to Judge Wm. M. Ship by order of Gov. Worth.

Raleigh Progress.

HERTFORD COUNTY.—Capt. James Barnes is elected to the Senate, and Dr. G. C. Moore to the Commons, from Hertford, both Conservatives and gentlemen of worth, who will make excellent representatives.

BASE BALL MATCH.—The Base Ball Club between the Pioneer and Rail Heel Clubs of Raleigh, on Friday last, resulted in favor of the former by six runs. The Pioneer Club challenges the State.

ROCK ISLAND WOOLLEN FACTORY.—This factory, so long known as the former located 18 miles from Charlotte, on the Catawba River. Since the war it has been moved into Charlotte, and now operates near the Central Railroad. General Young showed us through the whole establishment, greatly to our satisfaction. Among the large quantities of machinery added since the war, may be found ten very large double looms, of the latest and most superb style. We saw these looms actually weaving ten different varieties of most beautiful and very fine woolen goods. General Young informs us that these goods are now sold extensively in nearly all the Southern States. We have never seen prettier or better goods of New England manufacture than these mills are now producing.

The dry goods merchants of Raleigh, poor fellows, have never seen such goods. We must not omit to notice the new steam boilers now in this factory. They are constructed of a large number of small cast iron globes all connected, so as to allow the steam to pass freely from one to another, the blast passing through the globe and out through a full head of steam as at any time raised in fifteen minutes; a large amount of wood is saved, and there is no danger of an explosion. We were perfectly delighted with its operation. On the whole, we have not for a long time spent so pleasant a day as we spent in Charlotte.

Raleigh Enterprise.

C. S. PARSON LUG.—The Salisbury prison lot was sold at that place, few days ago, by the office of the United States Government. Mr. H. H. Helper became the purchaser for $1,600.

TOURNAMENT.—There will be a Tournament and Coronation Party in Lonsburg on the 23d inst. The Engle states that the address of the Knights will be delivered by the Hon. Z. B. Vance.

HOLSTON CONFERENCE.—The Asheville News gives an account of the proceedings of the Holston Conference in that place recently. The Conference voted unanimously to change the name of the Church, and also in favor of lay representation. We believe that all the Conferences of the Southern branch of the Church have met, so far, have voted for these changes.

DIVIDEND.—The National Bank of Newbern has declared a dividend of 7 per cent., free of Government tax, from its earnings during the last eight months.

DARING OUTRAGE.—On Wednesday last a person hired a horse at Captain Mowers' stable and paid him his day's work. Next day the same horse was hired by the same person but was not returned according to promise. On Saturday, Mr. Wigle, attached to Captain M's stable, while on a hunt for the horse, came upon him in a yard near Trenton, where a dozen or more men were congregated. He did not think it prudent to claim the horse, and returned home with the intelligence. Yesterday Captain M. and Mr. Wigle came upon the parties at the designated place, but instead of getting the horse they nearly lost two others in their efforts to save their own lives. The gang alluded to, pursued them nearly ten miles, but did not overtake them. Captain Mowers saved himself but lost his horse and injured a couple more.

In consequence of this outrage, and of an application of Mr. A. S. Colgrove, (whose cotton gin was recently burned,) a man and a sergeant of the U. S. regulars stationed in this city, leave this morning to be stationed on Mr. Colgrove's plantation till he gathers in his cotton crop.—Mr. Colgrove has been very kind in mentioning that Captain Stubbs has made a requisition for forty horses and equipments to mount a portion of the troops here for patrol duty. The horses are daily expected. We trust the troops may succeed in capturing the outlaws who are doing so much mischief.

SOLDIERS' GRAVES.—The Winston Sentinel expresses its gratification at the care and neatness with which the graves of our soldiers, who are buried at that place, are preserved. It says, speaking of a visit to the Cemetery, that neat white palings enclose the space of ground allotted for their burial places, and each is carefully boxed around, and furnished with these palings, and marked with the name, company, regiment, and State to which they belonged, and the date of their death; and there, too, were fresh flowers spread upon them, theotive offerings of kind friends to the loved and lost.

Cortox.—Cartier county will send to market, at least 1000 bales of cotton, whilst heretofore she has sent almost none.

CHARLOTTE.—Charlotte is growing. The Times says that there is an hundred applicants for houses in that place, and that the supply is far short of the demand.

FOR LATE LIEUT. EDWARD S. SMODES.—The remains of this brave young soldier, who was killed at Spotsylvania, C. H., on the 12th day of May, 1864, while acting as Adjutant of the 5th N. C. Troops, [Col. Garrett], were received in this city on Friday afternoon last.

On yesterday afternoon the funeral obsequies took place, and there was a very large and general turn-out of our citizens, of both sexes, to do honor to the memory of the noble and lamented youth. The time for eulogy has perhaps passed. More than ten years since he laid down his life for the cause to which he was ardently devoted, but it may not be amiss to say, even now, after such a lapse of time, that there were few young men in the Army of Northern Virginia of finer qualities of head and heart than Edward S. Smodes. Of singular valor and great loyalty, he was a true soldier and conscientious allegiance to duty, of winning and attractive manners and of approved gallantry, he was decidedly a universal favorite with his regiment.

The funeral cortege, as it moved from St. Mary's school, (the residence of his father), presented a striking and impressive appearance. The hearse containing the remains was preceded by quite a large body of ex-Confederate soldiers, some of his former immediate comrades, and following it were perhaps a hundred or more young ladies, in elegant dresses, each bearing a chaplet with which to crown the young soldier's sepulchre. Arrived at the Episcopal church, which was filled to its utmost capacity, the solemn burial service was read by the Rev. Dr. Mason, when the procession, increased by the accession of hundreds of citizens, moved in the same order to the City Cemetery, where the final rites were performed. After closing the grave, it was literally covered with flowers by fair hands, as was that of a younger and equally gallant brother, Ives Smodes, slain at Chambersville, by which he rests. The whole scene was beautiful and touching.

On the afternoon of the 14th of May, 1864, the writer of this assisted in committing all that was mortal of Edward Smodes to a rude soldier's grave on the field where hundreds of citizens, moved in the same order to the City Cemetery, where the final rites were performed. After closing the grave, it was literally covered with flowers by fair hands, as was that of a younger and equally gallant brother, Ives Smodes, slain at Chambersville, by which he rests. The whole scene was beautiful and touching.

COTTON PICKING ON THE ROANOKE.—The cotton pickers of Halifax county, have been busy at work. We have recently seen statements of cotton picking elsewhere, and now give statistics before us of work recently performed in Halifax. One plantation fifty hands averaged 295 pounds a day—aggregating 14,750 pounds. On another plantation, thirty-seven hands averaged 288 pounds, making a total of 10,650 pounds. Still on another fifty hands averaged 234 pounds, aggregating 11,700 pounds. Smith's road, the palm, having picked 757 pounds. Maria Smith picked 626 pounds, and Henry Smith picked 510 pounds.—Hurra for Halifax. Fifteen negroes picked on an average of 350 pounds each, they being picked lands, or experts.

THE UNIVERSITY.—In compliance with a resolution passed at the meeting of the Trustees of the University, in June last, the committee appointed to investigate the affairs of that institution has just closed their investigations, after several days session, at Chapel Hill. The committee will make their report at the annual meeting in December, in this city. The committee was composed of Hon. W. A. Graham, Chairman, Judge Battle, Wm. Eaton, Jr., Col. D. D. Ferber and Hon. S. P. Phillips.

MILITARY COMMISSION.—It will be remembered that the military commission constituted for the trial of certain parties mentioned in the Standard-Fuller report, has been adjourned for the past two months on account of the difficulty of securing the attendance of important witnesses. Orders have been received here, to understand, for the court to proceed with the trial without further delay, if possible.—Raleigh Progress.

SUPPERING WINE.—The Norfolk Daily Book is certain of an excellent article of supering wine from some of the vineyards of this State. It pronounces it superb, and says:

"All that is necessary in order to secure a ready sale, is to have it put up in tall, slim bottles of the Paganini shape, the cork well secured in the cork, and then labelled with a rich and golden illustration, and with a carefully selected name from the Rhine land, which can be readily selected, and this Old North State product, far superior to most if not all of the foreign acids we get, will 'go off like hot cakes.'"

FROM THE NEW YORK WATCHMAN.
WILMINGTON, N. C., Oct. 1866.

THE WATCHMAN. The Right Rev. the Bishop of Mississippi is here on a short visit to the home of his boyhood. He was welcomed by old and young, by the black as well as white, for he has that sweet disposition (as well as voice and manner) that marks the true Christian gentleman. His head is white, and his step less elastic than when he was before the war; indeed, if time had not left its mark, affliction and trouble, and has done so, for the good bishop has not only passed in this life from those most dear to him, but by the ravages of war all his earthly comforts, his house, his furniture, his library, his all, have been utterly destroyed.

The bishop preached at Wrightsville, the summer resort of Wilmingtonians, on the side, eight miles distant, Sunday morning last, and in the afternoon he administered the rite of confirmation (Bishop Atkinson being in England) in St. John's church in this city. St. John's is quite young as a parish, the church having been erected, nearly having been finished in 1861, but it manifests much life and spirituality, and it is increasing with healthful growth. It is, perhaps, the most beautiful church edifice in the State; is of the pure early English Gothic style of architecture, with clerestory, recessed chancel, stained glass and east window, and furniture of the native yellow pine, oak. It will seat six hundred and fifty persons. A handsome new organ has just been erected in the church by Jardine & Sons, of New York. It has two banks of keys, two rows of pedals, and a variety of speaking-pipes, in gold and blue, and of exquisite tone and finish. On the occasion of the bishop's visit the service, except the Lessons, was entirely choral. The effect was most inspiring and devotional, and it is likely to become a tradition throughout the Episcopal Church within a few years the rector of St. John's has occasionally introduced it in his church, and already is a growing love for it manifested on the part of his congregation. The music in this church is of a very high order.

The Sunday following the entrance of the Federal army into this city, the keys of this church were seized by order of the military; subsequently the rector's house was attacked, and fired into at night by Federal troops, and the rector, the Rev. Mr. Terry, was arrested by a white guard. In the evening the bishop preached in St. James's church, the Rev. Mr. Watson and the Rev. Mr. Terry reading the service. This is one of the oldest and wealthiest parishes in the State, and it is back to its original times. The rector, the Rev. Mr. Watson, in his annual report to the Diocesan Convention says: "Upon the capture of the city by the Federal forces, in 1865, the keys of the church were seized by military order, emanating, I believe, from Major-General Schofield. Subsequently the church was seized by order of Brigadier-General Hawley for a military hospital. This was not the first calamity in the history of the parish. In 1780, during the occupation of Wilmington by the British troops, the church and its contents and furniture, and converted first into a hospital, then into a block-house, and finally into a riding-school for Tarleton's dragoons. In 1865 the pews were again torn out with pickaxes, and the church building was very seriously damaged."

The Front street Methodist church at the same time was, by order of Major-General Schofield, turned over to the colored members for use one half of each day; and that order is still in force, greatly to the discomfort of the right-minded members of this trying time. The then pastor, the Rev. Mr. Burkhead, bore himself with great firmness and propriety.

The work on the First Baptist church, commenced before the war, under its zealous pastor, the departed Pritchard, is now being carried on by the Rev. Mr. Young, who is a true and earnest minister of the Gospel. The church is a fine specimen of architecture it is defective, yet, when finished, it will be an imposing structure, and an ornament to the city. The Rev. Mr. Young, the present pastor, is on a visit to the South, and will be back in the month of November. The Presbyterian church also is new, with handsome exterior; formerly, owing to political variations between pastors and people, it did not thrive, but now it is blessed in the faithful ministrations of the Rev. Mr. Singleton, and seems to prosper.

The Episcopal Catholic congregation is under the care of the Rev. Dr. Corcoran, a true Southern-spirited gentleman. We happen to know of an instance in which a large amount of alms was placed in Dr. Corcoran's hands, by the Archbishop of Baltimore, for the distribution among the poor of the State, and in which distribution Dr. Corcoran knew no creed; an evidence of that charity which "covereth a multitude of sins."

There is another Methodist congregation in Fifth street, which has recently been greatly blessed and glorified by the Rev. Mr. Young, who is a true and earnest minister of the Gospel. The church is a fine specimen of architecture it is defective, yet, when finished, it will be an imposing structure, and an ornament to the city. The Rev. Mr. Young, the present pastor, is on a visit to the South, and will be back in the month of November. The Presbyterian church also is new, with handsome exterior; formerly, owing to political variations between pastors and people, it did not thrive, but now it is blessed in the faithful ministrations of the Rev. Mr. Singleton, and seems to prosper.

The case of Cornelius Garrison vs. William Mahone was called to the Supreme Court Chamber, and will be on Friday. The defendant is the celebrated Gen. Mahone, of Mahone's brigade, so noted during the last few months of the rebellion for their long and rapid marches. The plaintiff, however, claims that he is a Republican by upwards of 40,000 majority. The Republicans have carried every State that elected yesterday by increased majorities, with the exception of Maryland and Delaware, which will show considerable Conservative gains.
